Excerpt from A Discourse: Preached Before the Congregation of the Smyrna Church, of Savannah River Association, First Sabbath, September, 1838 And many other signs truly did Jesus, in the presence of his disciples, which are no written in this book. But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and believing ye might have life through his name. - John, 20 c, xxx, xxxi. v. Strange is the condition in which Providence has placed the believer; he is ever walking (with regard to the knowledge of this world) in the midst of darkness and obscurity: but to the believer himself, all is light, so far as he is enabled to exercise faith upon the testimonies given by inspired men. Does he wish to ascertain the truth, which is the object of his faith? It is founded on facts, and in order to be assured of these facts he must force his way backward through more than eighteen centuries; he must dig truth and falsehood out of the rubbish of tradition, out of the captious systems of the enemies of Christianity - nay, sometimes out of pious frauds, on which an indiscreet zeal has attempted to establish it; he must plunge himself into periods that are gone by; he must walk by faith and not by sight. It is necessary that his persuasion, if I may so express myself, should form a new creation of things, which will open to his mind all that is necessary for his happiness in this world, or that which is to come. Being thus persuaded, he does not listen to the sophistry of men,...
