It was become a task of absolute necessity, to strike out some new idea for a Reform of Parliament. The Duke of Richmond had clearly demonstrated the absurdity of every plan of Reform, but his own; which in return had been proved by other Reformers to be wholly inadequate, ineffectual, and impracticable. In this difficulty we looked in vain for assistance from the instructive lucubrations of the Dublin Congress. Those Gentlemen have not allowed us to profit from the result of their collective wisdom: and we have too much respect for such illustrious sages, to attempt to draw aside the oracular veil which covers their proceedings. Pandere res alta terra caligine mersas. Virgil. Under the impression of this necessity, I have put together the following loode Thoughts. - The example of my fellow-labourers makes it very needless for me to apologize for want of abilities, and total ignorance of the subject: Like them, I feel it my duty to offer to my Countrymen, my crude and undigested ideas upon it.
